That terrible wash-tub!

This is the way it looks to the women who do their washing in the old-fashioned way. They dread it—and no wonder. All because they won't use Pearline. Use Pearline—use it just as directed—soak, boil and rinse the clothes—and the wash-tub won't be a bugbear. You won't have to be over it enough for that. No hard work—no inhaling of fetid steam—no wearing rubbing—no torn clothes—nothing but economy.

Send it Back Peddlers and some unscrupulous grocers will tell you "this is as good as" or "the same as Pearline." IT'S FALSE—Pearline is never peddled, and if your grocer sends you something in place of Pearline, be honest—send it back. 510

THE TURKISH CRISIS.

Discussion of the Probable Action of Powers.

Believed Matter Awaits the Issue of the Czar's Tour.

The Sultan Seized with Maniacal Fury of Serious Nature.

Berlin, Sept. 13. Lord Salisbury's so called independent policy in Turkey which is doubtless seen in the action of Sir Philip Currie, British ambassador at Constantinople, in presenting to the Porte a note protesting against the government's expulsion of Armenians from the Turkish capital without consulting the representatives of the powers, is not taken here as seriously as implying the appearance of a British fleet in the Bosphorus to enforce special British demands.

The absence of several ambassadors from Constantinople ought to furnish sufficient proof of the suspension of a final Turkish crisis.

Sir Philip Currie is the first ambassador who has had an audience with the Sultan since the recent riots in Constantinople. The Austrian and Russian ambassadors are away on leaves of absence, which will not expire until the end of the month. Sir Philip Currie, in the meantime is in command of the diplomatic field with whatever kind of isolated policy he has to push forward. No well-informed diplomats here believe independent action on the part of Great Britain is practicable, though the North German Gazette, whose articles on the Turkish situation are callous and unsympathetic with the persecuted Armenians, represents that the best official opinion here.

Other influential journals take entirely a different course. The Cologne Gazette declares that the powers want to deal energetically with the Sultan, but are undecided as to the method of doing so. "Though the last massacre in Constantinople was passed over by the European residents of the city," the Gazette adds, "as the fear and hatred of christians increased the powers must face a possible general massacre."

Advices received from Constantinople assert that the Sultan is afflicted with a homicidal mania arising from acute spinal disorder and statements made in these advices seem, according to the press, to be associated with a maniacal outburst of Turkish fanaticism generally. How to guard against such outburst is the first question to be placed before the foreign diplomats in Turkey.

If the powers agree to place the Sultan under tutelage with the appointments of the Turkish ministers and other officials, approved by the ambassador, this action must be accompanied by preparation for an armed occupation of Turkey.

The Kreuz Zeitung asserts that France and Russia will never assent to the plan of placing the Sultan under tutelage and will maintain the integrity of the empire and sovereignty of the Turkish monarch, and declares that these two powers already distrust the concentration of the British fleet at Salonica.

The amount of the situation is that these and other proposals dealing with the Sultan wait the issue of the Czar's tour.

Will Voluntarily Retire from National Committee

Philadelphia, Sept. 12. A local paper says: William F. Harrity, prior to the November election and possibly within a few weeks, will voluntarily retire from the national committee, not as a consequence of the narrow margin in the Harrisburg convention that saved him from compulsory retirement, but from disgust with the party management and platform. Harrity himself will not deny that he contemplates resigning from the national committee. That he purposes so to do, however, was generally asserted among the delegates at Harrisburg.

NEFARIOUS WORK.

Firebugs Attempt to Destroy Much Property in Danbury.

Danbury, Ct., Sept. 12. This city was visited by a disastrous fire this evening which destroyed Davis Bros.' box shop and Edward Griffin's hat factory on River street, entailing a loss of about $25,000. The fire is thought to have been the result of firebugs' work.

The building was a large, three-story wooden structure, the two lower floors being occupied by Davis Bros., and the upper floor by Griffin. The fire was first discovered shooting out of the skylight in Griffin's shop. It spread rapidly and worked down an air shaft into the box factory.

The blaze was a very stubborn one and it was two hours before it was under control. Surrounding factories were in imminent danger and were saved with difficulty.

About 150 hands are thrown out of work. Davis Bros.' loss is $15,000 and Griffin's $10,000. Watchman Kettle, who is employed at the works of the Tweedy & Burchard Tool Company, across a lane from the burned building, saw a man leave the place a few minutes before the flames broke out. He emerged from the building by a back door, threw on the ground what appeared to be a lighted cigar stump, and ran away.

PALMER AND BUCKNER

Officially Notified at Louisville of Nomination.

A Great Gathering of Advocates of Sound Money There.

Telegrams Read from President Cleveland and Secretary Carlisle.

Louisville, Ky., Sept. 13. Senator John McAuley Palmer, of Springfield, Ills., and Gen. Simon Bolivar Buckner, of Hart County, Kentucky, were formally notified at the Auditorium tonight that they are the nominees of the National Democracy for President and Vice President. In the presence of the greatest audience that ever attended a political gathering in Kentucky.

The 5 000 seats were filled and 3,000 people jammed the aisles and sides of the building, while at the doors gathered a thousand more eager to hear and shout for the standard bearer of the National Democracy. The meeting was presided over by Hon. W. D. Bynum, of Indiana, chairman of the National Democratic executive committee.

U. S. Senator Caffery, of Louisiana, notified Palmer and Col. John R. Fellows, of New York, informed Buckner of the honor conferred upon them.

The two standard bearers replied in turn and were greeted with such applause as to make the big building tremble.

Hon. Zach Phelphs, national committeeman from Kentucky, called the meeting to order and after the audience had joined in singing "America" he introduced Hon. W. D. Bynum as chairman. After a few remarks he read telegrams from Sec'y David R. Francis and Secretary Daniel Lamont, which were printed in the papers early in the week.

When he took up a third and read the words "Bar Harbor," there were yells of delight. "That's Carlisle, that's Carlisle," was the cry and when Bynum had finished reading three cheers were given for Carlisle, half a dozen times. Mr. Carlisle sent the following:

Bar Harbor, Me., Sept. 12, 1896.

The Hon. W. D. Bynum, Louisville, Ky.: Your telegram inviting me to attend the meeting at Louisville today has been forwarded to me at this place, and I greatly regret my inability to attend.

The conservative and patriotic declaration of the Indianapolis convention on the public questions involved in the pending contest, and the high character of the nominees cannot fail to arouse the real Democratic sentiment of the country and command the hearty support of all who sincerely believe in the preservation of the public honor, the public peace and the stability and value of the currency used by our people.

I am proud to take my stand with the old-fashioned Democrats who have refused to abandon their honest convictions in order to form unnatural alliances with political and social organizations whose purposes are dangerous to the country and wholly inconsistent with the fundamental principles of our party, and I pledge to you and your associates such support and assistance as I can properly give during the campaign.

J. G. Carlisle.

"Then came the outburst of the evening. "Buzzard's Bay," read Mr. Bynum. That was all the audience wanted to hear. Every man jumped upon his feet and screamed like mad for Grover Cleveland.

It was two minutes before Mr. Bynum continued and he was repeatedly interrupted with cheers for Grover Cleveland. When he finished the Indianapolis delegation proposed three cheers and they were of a rip-roaring order and lasted nearly two minutes. This telegram was read:

Buzzard's Bay, Mass., Sept. 10.

The Hon. W. D. Bynum, Indianapolis: I regret that I cannot accept your invitation to attend the notification meeting on Saturday evening. As a Democrat devoted to the principles and integrity of my party, I should be delighted to be present on an occasion so significant, and to mingle with those who are determined that the voice of true Democracy shall not be smothered and who insist that its glorious standard shall be borne aloft as of old in faithful hands.

GROVER CLEVELAND.

When the applause had subsided Mr. Bynum introduced Senator Caffery, who was given a warm reception. He delivered an able speech.

Senator Palmer read an able speech. Col. Fellows was introduced to notify Gen. Buckner. Col. Fellows never showed his great oratorical powers to better advantage.

TO-DAY'S ELECTION.

The Outlook Promising for a Heavy Vote to be Thrown.

Portland, Me., Sept. 13. Weather permitting the outlook is promising for a heavy vote to-morrow. The voters are impressed by the importance of the issues and the stay at homes will be few. The Republicans have made a splendid canvass. The gold Democratic vote is the unknown quantity that will remain unknown, since it is conceded that Clifford will not poll anything near its full strength, many Democrats voting for Powers or not at all. If he gets over 1,500 his vote will exceed expectations. The Populist vote may be somewhat increased and the Prohibitionist insignificant.

ENCOURAGING NEWS

Received by Republican Managers From the West—McKinley's Busy Week.

Canton, O., Sept. 13. Yesterday was the most active and laborious day Major McKinley has had since his nomination. He did not go to Zoar last night, as he thought at one time of doing. The people gave him no chance to leave town. He was serenaded several times during the evening and had a great many callers at the house.

To-day he enjoyed a well earned rest. This morning Major McKinley took a short drive with Mrs. McKinley and made a visit to his mother. He did not go to church. This afternoon he took a long drive into the country and was much refreshed by it.

He is looking well and feeling well after his week of arduous work and is ready for the still harder work of the new week. Major McKinley will have a larger number of delegations at his house this week than he has received in the same length of time since his nomination and many of them will be very large delegations. The total number of political pilgrims to Canton this week will exceed 50,000.

It is plain to those in touch with the work of the campaign here that the Republicans from all parts of the country have determined to visit Major McKinley.

Letters asking for dates for delegations come by every mail.

News of an encouraging nature was received from Iowa today. A poll of all save 12 counties in the State shows that the voters are two to one for McKinley. The twelve counties not polled are strongly Republican.

News from all parts of the west is of a cheering character.

THE CAMPAIGN.

Enthusiastic Republican Rally at Garland.

The Republican rally held at Garland was an enthusiastic gathering. The hall, which has been recently renovated and put in excellent condition, was handsomely decorated with flowers and bunting. There was a large audience in attendance.

Hon. Lyndon Oak presided over the meeting and made some very effective remarks concerning the duty of the voters on election day. Col. Stanley Plummer, of Dexter, was the first speaker and he made a very able address upon the currency question. He was followed by Col. I. K. Stetson, of Bangor, who made an excellent impression by his earnest remarks.

The Garland orchestra furnished a very pleasing programme of music during the evening. Its selections were much enjoyed.

Fine Rally at Calais

A Calais correspondent writes: Congressman Boutelle was as usual greeted with a warm reception by a very large audience at the meeting in this city last week. Dr. Swan presided. There was a flag raising, when the big crowd gave enthusiastic cheers for Mr. Boutelle. The hall was filled with one of the best audiences ever gathered in Calais and Mr. Boutelle held their close attention for two hours. Men of all parties commend his speech as a clear and comprehensive statement of the issues involved and Democrats express special satisfaction at the speaker's fair and candid treatment of the money question. The speech gives unbounded satisfaction to the party here and cannot fail to do much good. The stage was beautifully decorated by the flags and bunting, foliage and cut flowers.

Pleasant Incident at Newport

A correspondent writes. A pleasant occasion and one not down on the programme, is reported at Newport station on the evening of the Pittsfield rally.

The Young Men's Republican Club of Dexter, 100 strong, arrived on the Dexter train en route for Pittsfield. Congressman Boutelle reached Newport a few moments later on Owen's train, learning which J. W. Crosby, Esq., Secretary of the Republican County Committee, lined the boys up and preceded by their Band marched to the further end of the long platform and saluted Mr. Boutelle with hearty cheers. Mr. Boutelle came to the car platform and happily responded in a few well chosen remarks, thanking the Young Republicans for the courtesy shown and congratulating them on their enthusiastic work in the campaign, after which the train departed carrying Mr. Boutelle to Dover where he spoke in the evening. The occasion was a pleasant one for all parties, and a large crowd witnessed the proceedings and listened to the remarks. Our young Republicans are thoroughly alive in this campaign.

Rally at Brownville.

A Brownville correspondent writes: The Republicans of this town held a second enthusiastic rally at Grange Hall Friday evening. A large audience was present to hear the Hon. Wm. Engel, of Bangor, and the Hon. J. F. Sprague, of Monson.

Both of these gentlemen have a large personal acquaintance here and their friends were delighted with the clear and characteristic manner in which they discussed the issue. Both speakers were warmly applauded and it was a matter of regret to all to have the meeting come to a close.

At Kenduskeag.

The Kenduskeag town hall was crowded to its utmost capacity Friday evening, when Hon. James S. Sherman, member of Congress from New York, addressed the citizens upon the political issues of the day. Not only was every seat occupied, but every foot of standing room was occupied by men who listened for an hour and a half to the speaker's able lecture.

Mr. Sherman was a stranger to the people but all who heard him felt they had met a friend. He enlisted the sympathy of the audience at the outset and held their closest attention to the last word. When he said he had occupied quite enough of their time from all over the hall came calls of "go on," "go on." Mr. Sherman discussed thoroughly every phase of the silver question. He depicted its fallacies and clearly showed to what deplorable conditions the success of Bryan, free silver and the anarchistic theories of the Chicago platform would lead.

He said that under a Republican protective policy there had appeared no difficulty with our currency, and that under a renewal of that policy after March 4th next, all currency disturbances would fade away. He drew a beautiful word picture of McKinley and quoted him as saying we wanted more confidence rather than more coin, open factories rather than open mints. He spoke in warmest praise of Congressman Boutelle and his reference to him as the "forceful and fearless Boutelle" brought forth generous applause.

Mr. Sherman has a musical voice and spoke with much force. The cause of honest money and protection has been advanced by Mr. Sherman's visit.

Vote the straight ticket and swell the Republican verdict for protection and sound money.

State Election, Monday, Sept. 14.

For Assignment of Speakers See Third Page.

The Last Appeal.

The speakers and the press have done their part in this campaign, and it now remains for the voters to return their verdict. It has been in the strict sense of the word an educational campaign and the people now fully understand the importance of the issues involved. Now let every man go to the polls and cast a straight Republican vote. Place your cross in the square over the regular Republican ticket in the left hand column of the official ballot. This done there can be no question that the ballot will count for those principles of sound government that appeal to the support of every intelligent citizen. Those who attended the great closing rally at City Hall, Saturday night, were told by the distinguished speakers from other States how much importance attaches to the result in Maine. It is impossible to exaggerate this phase of to-day's election. The eyes of the country are now turned in this direction, and there will be joy in the land when the wires convey the news that Maine has spoken in a loud voice for protection and sound money.

Bangor should not be behind the rest of the State in contributing to the grand result. There is a disorganizing element at work in our midst, but the people of this city should not lose sight of the principles involved. Stop a moment and consider what it is you are asked to do. In a campaign where so much is at stake that Democrats by the score are refusing to vote their own party ticket, in order to swell the grand chorus of public contempt for the Chicago repudiationists, men are actually going about seeking to get Republicans to cut their ticket, even more than that to sacrifice the whole ticket to gratify the ambition of men who have bolted the regular nominees of the party. When the voter takes time for calm reflection we do not believe he will consent to be a party to such a performance.

Bring out every vote and let the Queen City of the East stand solidly in the Republican column when the polls close to-day.

Let every voter go to the polls to-day.

A vote for Frank to-day is a vote for Bryan and a fifty cent dollar.

Vote the straight ticket and swell the Republican verdict for Protection and Sound Money.

A vote for Frank to-day is a vote for Repudiation of public and private debts and Lower Wages.

The people want more business, not more silver for the benefit of the rich mine owner. Vote the straight Republican ticket.

Our Water Works.

In another column we publish a communication signed by several of our leading citizens relative to the water works question to be voted on at to-day's election. It should and doubtless will be read with much care before the citizen goes to the polls. The writers point out that new pumps and new wheels have been added to the plant during the past few years to meet the additional demands, and further express the belief that any lack of water does not come from inadequate power, but from the extravagant use of water. The average consumption of water per capita throughout the United States is seventy gallons a day, while in this city in 1894 the per capita consumption was two hundred gallons. As a result of the agitation the waste was somewhat decreased the following year when it was 153½ gallons, but even at these figures we are using more than double the water per individual than any other city in the country.

This matter of waste water was considered by the Water Board in 1895 when it was unanimously voted by the members present to recommend the use of meters. It is held that under proper restrictions the present plant is sufficient to meet all requirements, hence that the proposition to increase the taxes by an expenditure of $145,000 for the practical reconstruction of the water works is an [illegible] upon the people. It is also held by these men of sound business judgment that we should curtail the waste of water, [illegible] attempting any [illegible] the [illegible] house and running expenses of the departments there is a strong feeling against this additional tax.

Vote to-day in favor of opening the mills to American labor instead of opening the mints to the silver of the world.

Maine's verdict to-day means a great deal to the National campaign. Every Republican should remember this fact and refuse to split his ticket.

Bangor should stand in the foremost rank of Republican cities. A good majority here will add materially to the general result in the State. Do not throw your vote away by attempting to scratch candidates.

Bolting the Ticket.

In the coming election I have tried hard to have the people have a chance to vote for everybody they desire, without being troubled to write names on the ballot. But THE WHIG AND COURIER does not seem to want that as they hope to force everybody to vote the whole ticket in the left column.

The above is an extract from the latest letter written by Mayor Beal. When he says THE WHIG is doing everything in its power to get men to "vote the whole ticket in the left column" he is right. That left column is the regular Republican column and THE WHIG always urges voters to place their mark in just that spot. It has done so when the name of Mr. Beal was there and at that time he thought THE WHIG was right. In fact he was perfectly sure it was right and he insisted that anyone who did not follow such advice was not a Republican. In those days he was a great stickler for majority rule and held that once the party had made its nominations every man was bound to loose sight of all personal preferences and vote the straight ticket. To-day his name is in the right hand column, the bolters' column, and he stands ready to sacrifice every candidate on the regular ticket to secure votes for himself. He and his lieutenants have been making any and every kind of a dicker. The head of the ticket, the Congressional candidate, Senatorial candidates, Sheriff, and in fact all of the county nominees have in turn been offered in exchange for votes for Beal. And yet this man has the impudence to claim that he is a Republican and affects great indignation when he is called a bolter.

Concerning the duties of wardens Mayor Beal can readily ascertain important information on this point if he will go to the polls to-day and offer to the warden any form of ballot other than the official ballot prescribed by law. It would not be received and yet the constitution grants him the right to vote. The Legislature has made a law fixing the manner in which he and other citizens shall discharge their constitutional functions at the polls. It has not only fixed the kind of ballot to be used, but also clearly provides how it shall be marked to be a legal ballot. The warden who, under the law, is not allowed to accept any other than the official ballot cannot count any ballot not marked in direct accordance with the provisions of the same law. When Mayor Beal advices wardens that they can ignore the letter and the spirit of the law he is assuming a grave responsibility, knowing as he does that his advice is liable to get them into trouble. But Mayor Beal has no thought of the warden when he starts out to carry a point.

The man who asks you to bolt the regular Republican ticket to-day is an enemy of the party and has no regard for the great principles involved in the election.

The only safe way to mark your ballot is to place a cross in the square over the regular Republican ticket in the left column of the official ballot. That will vote the whole ticket. This is the plain duty of every loyal Republican.

HOW TO MARK BALLOT.

Valuable Legal Opinion Instructing Voters.

Must Only Use One Cross in Marking the Ballot.

Duty of Wardens to Throw Out Defective Ballots.

The following opinion drawn by Charles F. Woodard, Esq., and endorsed by several of the leading lawyers of the city, as to the proper manner of marking ballots and the duty of wardens in making the count, is of the utmost importance at this time. It should be carefully read by every voter:

Bangor, September 10th, 1896.

Col. I. K. Stetson, chairman of the Republican City Committee, Bangor.

Sir: As requested by you I have examined the law of this State in relation to the preparation of ballots by voters and to the counting of the votes, and now give my opinion as to how the ballots should be prepared and the votes counted.

This law is found in chapter 102, of the Public Laws of 1891 as amended by chapter 267 of the Public Laws of 1893, and the proper construction to be given to this law, both in relation to the preparation of ballots and to the counting of votes, has been declared by the Supreme Court.

There can be no question as to this law being in accordance with the Constitution.

The Supreme Court of Massachusetts in the case of Cole vs. Tucker, reported in Vol. 164, of the Massachusetts reports, page 486, has declared:

"In general it may be said that the Australian Ballot Acts in the various forms in which they have been enacted in many of the States of this country, have been sustained by the courts, provided the acts permit the voter to vote for such persons as he pleases by leaving blank spaces on the official ballot in which he may write or insert in any other proper manner the names of such persons, and by giving him the means and a reasonable opportunity to write in or insert such names."

The law of this State provides for such blank spaces on the official ballot, and further provides for the means and reasonable opportunity for the voter to write in or insert the names of such persons as he wishes to vote for.

And the Court in this State in the case of Curran vs. Clayton, reported in the 86th Volume of the Maine Reports, page 43, has declared:

"It is a recognized and familiar principle that the elective franchise, though guaranteed by the Constitution as a [illegible] to the persons who are [illegible] under [illegible] regulations and restrictions as the Legislature may deem reasonably necessary."

The Legislature in the acts before named has prescribed the regulations and restrictions deemed by it as reasonably necessary, and in order to constitute votes, within the meaning of the law, entitled to be counted as votes, the ballots must be prepared by the voters in accordance with the regulations and restrictions specified by the Legislature. These regulations and restrictions are:

"On receipt of his ballot the voter shall forthwith, and without leaving the inclosed space, retire alone to one of the voting shelves or compartments so provided and shall prepare his ballot by marking in the appropriate margin or place, a cross (X) as follows: He may place such mark within the square above the name of the party group or ticket, in which he shall be deemed to have voted for all the persons named in the group under such party or designation. And if the voter shall desire to vote for any person or persons, whose name or names are not printed as candidates on the party group or ticket, he may erase any name or names which are printed on the group or party ticket, and under the name or names so erased he may fill in the name or names of the candidates of his choice. Or if the voter does not desire to vote for a person or persons whose name or names are printed upon the party group or ticket, he may erase such name or names with the effect that the ballot shall not be counted for the candidate or candidates whose names are so erased."

On such a ballot as is to be thrown in the coming election, in order to comply with the restrictions and regulations of the Legislature, in my opinion only one cross should be placed by any voter.

It will be observed that the language of the law is, "He shall prepare his ballot by marking in the appropriate margin or place a cross." This clearly means one, and not more than one, cross. And under the plain meaning of the law there is no need of more than one cross upon any ballot, for the law clearly prescribes how the voter who shall desire to vote for any person or persons whose name or names are not printed as candidates in the party group or ticket may do so, and the method prescribed is by erasing any name or names which are printed on the group or party ticket, and under the name or names so erased filling in the name or names of the candidates of his choice.

Or, if the voter simply does not desire to vote for some of the candidates whose name or names are printed upon the party group or ticket, and has no desire to substitute any other candidates in their places, he may accomplish his purpose by simply erasing the name or names of the candidates for whom he does not desire to vote.

In my opinion a ballot prepared or marked in any other way than as prescribed by the Legislature in the foregoing regulations and restrictions will not constitute a legal vote and will not be entitled to be counted as a vote.

Under the Constitution it is the duty of the wardens in the respective wards to preside impartially at the polls, to receive the votes of all qualified electors present, sort, count and declare them in open ward meetings, but it is not their duty, and they have not the right, to receive and count as votes defective ballots, or ballots so marked as not to be in accordance with the regulations and restrictions prescribed by the Legislature.

The right and duty of the wardens to reject such defective ballots, and to refuse to count them as votes, have been clearly declared by the Supreme Court in the case of Curran vs. Clayton, before referred to.

Respectfully,
C. F. Woodard.

We, the undersigned members of the Penobscot Bar, having examined the foregoing opinion, hereby state that we fully approve and concur in the same.

S. F. Humphrey,
C. A. Bailey,
Matthew Laughlin,
F. H. Appleton,
Henry L. Mitchell,
Hugh R. Chaplin,
P. H. Gillin.

I concur in the above opinion, but desire to add that all ballots cast are to be preserved by the proper officers in the manner provided by the statute.

Charles Hamlin.

FIRE INSURANCE RATES.

Statement that Increase Is Contemplated in this City,

Authoritatively Denied by the Agents of the Companies.

Bangor, Sept. 11, 1896.

To the Editor of the WHIG AND COURIER:

The undersigned, fire insurance agents of Bangor, having had their attention called to an article recently published in the Bangor Daily News, relating to a probable advance in fire insurance rates in this city, have investigated the matter that they might be able to give the facts to the public.

We have communicated with the New England Insurance Exchange and are informed that no such business has been contemplated by them, and that no meeting of the Penobscot county committee will be held on September 12th, as stated in the article referred to, and therefore the statements published in the News relative to this matter are wholly without foundation.

(Boston Globe.)

Some one has been fooling the citizens of Bangor, Me., on an insurance rate scare. The field representatives of the fire insurance companies doing business in Maine were in receipt of telegrams from their Bangor local agents yesterday asking if the report that the fire insurance rates were to go away up was correct. They had heard from the local papers that the rates were to be stiffly advanced, and since no intimation had been made of such a move they were anxious to know where they were at. The exchange men replied that they had no knowledge of any such move, and as far as they knew fire rates in Bangor were not going to be interfered with in any way.

NEWS BY CABLE.

A Change in English Policy Toward the Porte.

British Squadron To Rendezvous at Salonica in October.

London, Sept. 12.—Special cable letter—The orders issued to the British squadron under Admiral Seymour to rendezvous at Salonica in October are distinctly connected with the change in British policy towards the Porte, which marked the arrival of Sir Philip Currie. The British ambassador in Constantinople, Sir Philip, without ostentatiously declaring a more active and isolated English policy, has conveyed the impression to other European diplomats at Constantinople that henceforth the European concert will be adhered to by England only so far as it agrees with a purely English policy.

There must be no more massacres of Christians, nor Moslem mob risings, nor incitings to general murder without practical intervention by England, with or without the approval of the other powers.

The game which Russian diplomacy played under Prince Lobanoff's astute hand, of paralyzing all interference in the sultan's misdoings until the time became ripe for the utter ruin of Turkey to the aggrandizement of Russia, seems about to end. The question is asked here why Lord Salisbury so long followed a merely tentative policy and what caused the change to a more pronounced independent one.

There is no doubt that the queen's indignation over the Constantinople massacres had much to do with it. Her Majesty rarely interferes, but when she does, the interference is effective. The recent disclosures in the publication of the Bismarckian letter of 1875 in which it was seen how Queen Victoria by writing to Emperor William first foiled Bismarck's plan for the final conquest and division of France, is a striking instance of her power when she chooses to exert it.

Apart from the message which she is understood to have sent to the sultan through Sir Philip Currie, expressing her indignation and horror of massacres, the queen is known to be using [illegible] with the czar.

The visit of the Russian Emperor to Balmoral which was supposed to be a purely family affair, devoid of all possible political result, is likely to prove quite the other way, and to have more [illegible] influence on European [illegible] than either the visit to Vienna or Breslau and possibly more even than the Paris demonstration.

The current [illegible] of European [illegible] about Prince Lobanoff's death [illegible] no change in Russia's diplomacy verges on nonsense. [illegible]

Chamberlain's Presence Needed.

Irish Local Government Bill.

The introduction of an Irish local government bill in the coming session of parliament is unquestionably among the subjects which will engage [illegible] attention when the ministers resume their meetings. Mr. Chamberlain's remarks on Mr. Healy as the greatest Irishman living has already been commented upon by cable as made with a purpose. [illegible]

The Pacific Cable

The colonial office, responding to an inquiry as to the truth of a report in American papers that the Pacific cable has decided to forthwith lay the Vancouver-Australian cable, states that the report is incorrect. The cable commission has only affirmed the general principle of the desirability of an all British cable to Australia, and will not deliberate further on the subject until the views of Mr. Laurier, the Canadian minister, are known.

Another Rise in Discount by Bank of England Probable.

London, Sept. 12.—As the result of inquiries among leading London bankers and financiers it is learned that the bankers generally are in expectation that a further draft of gold will be made upon Great Britain by the United States, but none of them will venture to estimate the extent of the draft.

As to a further increase of the Bank of England rate of discount there is no doubt that the bank will raise its rate to three per cent. in the event of any large drain of gold from England and it certainly would not require a sum as large as 6,000,000 pounds, the sum which it was reported yesterday might be reached to cause a raise in the discount rate.

The Statist in an article on the situation says: "Nobody can foresee how large the treasury drain of gold will be but prudent bank directors will lose no time in making their discount rate effective."

Letter from Former Home Secretary on Turkish Question.

London, Sept. 12.—The Rt. Hon. Herbert Asquith, formerly home secretary, has sent a message to the Chronicle on the Turkish question, saying that Great Britain should have refused to hold further terms with a government which has become a mere instrument of a will that is either criminal or insane. The European powers, he adds, cannot condone the past crimes of the Porte or ignore future dangers. Mr. Asquith concludes his message with an expression of the hope that there will be shortly [illegible]

Their names are in the paper every day. In the obituary column. The names of men killed by neglect of their health combined with overwork. They should serve as a warning to others who are fast following in their footsteps. No man can stand the strain of modern business competition who wilfully neglects his health. It is not good policy to overwork, but the man who looks after his health can stand a great deal of it. The man who neglects his health is soon unfitted for work. When a man's digestion is disordered and his bowels are irregular his blood becomes impure and the body is badly nourished. The victim of these conditions suffers from brain fag, nervous prostration, and debility, and eventually falls a victim to consumption. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery corrects the digestion, invigorates the liver, improves the appetite and regulates the bowels. It is the best blood-purifier, blood-maker, flesh builder, and nerve tonic. It makes a man well, strong, clear-headed and fit for business. It enables him to stand a reasonable amount of overwork. All good druggists sell it. There's nothing "just as good."

Chas. Fullrider, of Brownlee, Cherry Co., Nebr., writes: "I have used Dr. Pierce's medicines, especially the 'Golden Medical Discovery' with much benefit. Some time ago I was troubled with great distress in my arms and hands. It got so bad I could not sleep at night. I thought it was the muscles of my arms that caused the trouble. I began taking the 'Golden Medical Discovery.' Soon I felt a decided improvement, and before I had taken the second bottle the aching was all gone, and it has not returned. I have a copy of your 'Common Sense Medical Adviser' and would not do without it for any money."

Knowing how to take care of health is half the battle against illness. Dr. Pierce's great book, "Common Sense Medical Adviser" is the educator of the age. This book reached a sale of 680,000 copies at $1.50 each. Within its 1,008 pages is compressed the best that Dr. Pierce has gathered by study and practice in thirty years. It is illustrated with over 300 drawings, some of them colored. Sixty pages addressed exclusively to women are worth the original price of the book. A new edition in paper covers is now ready for free distribution. By sending 21 cents in one-cent stamps to pay for mailing, you will receive this great book. For cloth binding, send 31 cents extra. Address, World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y.

Bryan—Sewall—Williams Tickets Snowed Under in Boston.

Boston, Sept. 12.—The Democratic caucuses for the election of delegates to the various conventions were held in this city last night. They were as a rule largely attended, especially those in which there were contests. The counting of the ballots was slow and the full returns were not in until along in the forenoon.

The contest over the state delegations was between tickets filed by the regular ward committees and those put in the field by the Bryan-Sewall-Williams club. The latter made a determined, but fruitless effort to secure control of the wards. Mr. Williams had announced that only the names of the delegates on the Bryan-Sewall-Williams tickets would be regarded as friendly to him and he made a special effort to defeat the tickets which bore the names of Jno. H. Sullivan, acting chairman of the Democratic state committee, James Donovan, ex-president of the Democratic ward and city committee, and Patrick Maguire, one of the leaders in Ward 21.

These gentlemen were successful in the contests by large majorities. The Bryan-Sewall-Williams tickets were snowed under in every ward in the city with one exception, of Ward 19, where the ticket headed by Timothy W. Cookley won out by a majority of 40 votes.

The result of the caucuses does not mean that Mr. Williams will be opposed by the delegates from Boston in the state convention. An overwhelming majority of them are in favor of nominating him for governor, but the essential point of significance of the action of the caucuses is the strong support of the Democratic ward and city committee and the complete failure of the Bryan-Sullivan-Williams club followers to become leaders of the party in the city.

THE NEW NAVY

Bids to be Opened Monday for Fifteen Vessels.

Three British Ships and Twelve Torpedo Boats to be Added.

New York, Sept. 12.—A Washington special to the Sun says: Bids will be opened at the navy department on Monday for the construction of the three battle ships and twelve torpedo boats authorized at the last session of Congress and representing a total appropriation of about $15,000,000, three-fourths of which will be for the larger vessels.

The limit of price fixed for each of the three vessels of this class is about $4,000,000, exclusive of ordinance and armor, so that the firm securing two of the vessels will have about all the naval work it can attend to of this class, although the Newport News Co., which only entered the battleship class of bidders last year, has two of this type now building.

The firm is looked upon as certain to enter proposals for the new ships, and should it underbid the Cramps the department will be compelled to award it the contracts; but as the Philadelphia firm is now without many large contracts with the navy, the officials are hopeful that it may be the lowest bidder and get two of the ships, and that the third vessel will go to the Union works of San Francisco.

Representatives of the interested firms will be in Washington at the opening of the bids on Monday but unless Secretary Herbert returns no awards will be anounced. Four days later bids will be opened for twelve torpedo boats, three of which are to be of the highest speed (thirty knots) ever attempted in the construction of this type of boat in the United States. The remainder are to be comparatively small crafts of not more than thirty-eight tons and a speed of twenty-one knots.

The thirty knots boats are to cost, exclusive of armament not exceeding $100,000 each and as there is not much margin left at these low figures for boats designed for such extraordinarily high speed, the bids are hardly expected to come from more than one or two firms. No plans have been prepared for any of the torpedo boats, and bidders are left to submit their own designs.

The Herreshoffs, it is understood, will bid on all of the boats, and especially anxious is the department that they secure the thirty knot type, as it is contended they are among the best fast boat builders in the country. It was at their suggestion that they would build thirty knot, or even better torpedo boats, for the navy, that Secretary Herbert secured the provisions for these vessels.

Heretofore the Cramps have declined to bid on torpedo boats, but this was due to the fact that when proposals were asked they had about all the naval work they could handle. It is said that they will bid on all classes of ships this time, as will also the California firm and the Newport News Co.

WILL SEND THEM HOME.

Unemployed Armenians to be Excluded from Constantinople.

Washington, Sept. 12.—The Turkish legation has received from the Sublime Porte the following telegram under Thursday's date: "The imperial government, wishing to secure public order at Constantinople, has decided to send back to their native places all individuals with no occupation, who came from the provinces. As these individuals, however, may attempt to return to the capital, the Sublime Porte has transmitted to the authorities of the provinces express orders to increase this vigilance and to prevent said return.

"Besides, commissions composed of delegates from the departments of war, interior and police will be sent to the ports where the individuals in question will be landed. These commissions will have to superintend the working of the police of those ports and to establish the identity of all persons arriving as well as to examine their permit of travel.

"As it is possible that among the persons sent back to their native places will be anarchists who, there also, will try to commit crimes and use bombs and dynamite, the imperial authorities were ordered to examine closely all merchandise arriving at the ports and to take all necessary measures tending to preserve the public peace and to counteract the seditious proceedings of the perturbators. The proper steps have also been taken to prevent the entering into the empire of all commissaries of the Armenian committees established in Bulgaria and abroad."

W. JENNINGS BRYAN

Addresses the Laboring Men at Kansas City.

Kansas City, Mo., Sept. 12.—Wm. Jennings Bryan made two speeches in Kansas City this morning, one to the workmen of the two Kansas cities, in the packing house district, the other to a vast crowd of people at the corner of Eleventh street and Grand avenue, up town. Mr. Bryan was met at Leavenworth by a special committee to escort him to this city, where he arrived at 6.30.

At 7 o'clock Mr. Bryan addressed a crowd of ten thousand workmen. He spoke as follows: "Fellow citizens. This is a little earlier than I usually commence my morning's work (laughter). I am very glad to be able to speak to you even for a moment. Some of our opponents tell us that the thing to do is to open the mills instead of mints. That reminds me of the man who said that his horse would go all right if he could just get the wagon started. (Laughter and applause.) It is putting the cart before the horse.

"What use are the mills unless the people can buy what the mills produce, and how can you start them as long as those who produce the wealth of this country, particularly the farmers, are not able to get enough out of what they raise to pay their taxes and interest.

"There is no more effective way of destroying the markets for what the mills produce than to lower the prices of the products the farmer has raised so that they will not bring him enough to pay him for raising them.

"There was a report once filed by Mr. McKinley in 1890 along with the McKinley bill and that report declared that there was great industrial depression and that while there was depression in agriculture there could be no prosperity anywhere.

"It was true then and it was true today that while there is depression in agricultural products there can be no prosperity anywhere. You must commence at the bottom and work up through the other classes. You can not commence your prosperity at the top and expect it to work down through all the classes of society. You gentlemen who live in this city surrounded by an agricultural country know that there is no way of bringing prosperity to Kansas City until you first bring prosperity to toilers upon whose success Kansas City rests. (Applause.)

"It does not require financiers, it does not require a railroad attorney to tell you where your prosperity lies. (Great applause.) Nor can these men prevent you from exercising the right of sovereignty as you please. (A voice. They are trying to do it). My friends I met a railroad man yesterday who told me that while he did not agree with me on the silver question, an' issue had been raised greater than the silver question and that was whether he lived in a republic where a man had the right to vote as he pleased or whether he is the property of somebody else to be used as somebody else pleased."

A voice shouted, "Missouri gives you 100,000 majority you bet," another voice—"Put Kansas down for 60,000," another voice, "and Arkansas is all right."

"That," said Mr. Bryan, "sounds very much like one of these meetings where they take up a collection. When you talk about the results of an election, the people from the various states vie with each other to see who can make it the nearest to unanimity. My friends, there is one characteristic about this campaign and that is the intense earnestness of the people.

"Sometimes in a campaign you find men lukewarm, people who do not know whether they are going to the polls or not, and sometimes you find it necessary to get carriages to take the people to the polls. Unless all signs fail there will be no use for carriages this year.

"Unless all signs fail the people are going to be at the polling places, before the booths open and stay there until they close, and there won't be a man who can get to the polls but who will be sure to be there."

FIRE AT OLD ORCHARD.

Imperial Hotel Burned by Incendiaries Saturday Morning.

Old Orchard Beach, Sept. 12. The Imperial, the second largest hotel here, was totally destroyed by fire this morning.

The fire was discovered at 4.55 by a man who was on his way to work at Milliken's mills. The only occupants of the house were the proprietor, D. S. Swan, his family and three lady guests. Swan used hand fire extinguishers, but to no avail. A small quantity of furniture was saved. Mr. Swan had no insurance on his household effects or furniture. The house was owned by a syndicate of Saco men, who had an insurance of $15,000.

The house was built 23 years ago and had a capacity for 450 guests.

The total loss is estimated at $30,000. The fire was undoubtedly of incendiary origin.

THOUGHT TO BE INSANE.

Italian Hotel Proprietor Shot by his Bar Tender.

Boston, Sept. 12. Bernardo Ambrosoli, a well known Italian hotel proprietor in North street, was shot and killed this morning by his bar tender, Charles Bacigalupo. The murderer, who made good his escape, is supposed to be insane. Two years ago he was confined in an asylum for some months, but was discharged as cured. He had been in Ambrosoli's employ for fifteen years and the two were on most intimate terms.

Last night after Ambrosoli had retired Bacigalupo rapped on the door of his employer's room and said he wanted to speak with him. The proprietor replied that he would see Bacigalupo in the morning, but would not talk with him then. Nothing more was seen of the murderor until 4 o'clock this morning, when Mr. Ambrosoli got up and started for the toilet room. Just as he reached the head of the stairs Bacigalupo shot him.

The wounded man threw up his hands to protect himself and then fell down the whole flight of stairs, landing on the third floor. The housekeeper was awakened by the pistol shot and running out of her room saw the murderer make his escape. Mr. Ambrosoli was dead when picked up.

The only cause that can be assigned for the deed is that the bartender's feelings had been hurt by Ambrosoli's refusal to talk with him.

Bernado Ambrosoli was one of the best known Italians in the city and his hotel in North street for years has been famous. He had been in business here for twenty-five years and was probably worth half a million dollars. He was the owner of stone quarries and other property at Barre, Vt., and considerable real estate at Milton, Mass.

RESULT OF SELF INTEREST.

Jones and Stewart, the Free Silver Leaders, were Gold Men in 1874.—They are Now Silver Men from Selfish Motives.

On April 1, 1874, Senator Jones, of Nevada, said: "Does this Congress mean now to leave entirely out of view and discard forever a standard of value? And what but gold can be that standard? What other thing on earth possesses the requisite qualities? * * * Gold is the articulation of commerce. It is the most potent agent of civilization. It is gold that has lifted the nations from barbarism.

"It is the common denominator of values. It makes possible the classification of labor and the interchange of commodities. Gold has intervened in bargains made between men since the dawn of civilization, and it has never failed to faithfully fulfill its part as the universal agent and servant of mankind. * * * The value of gold is not affected by the stamp of the government."

On June 11, 1874, he said: "I am opposed to any proposition, come in whatever form it may, that attempts to override what God Himself has made for money. I believe the sooner we come down to a purely gold standard the better it will be for the country."

Senator Stewart, of Nevada, in the same debate on June 12 said: "Sir, the laboring man and the producer is entitled to have his produce and his labor measured by the same standard of the world that measures your national debt. * * * Give him such a standard, give him such money as you require from him. You require it from the producer. You require from the laboring man gold to pay the interest on your national debt, which is right, which cannot be avoided if you mean to save national honor; but then give him the same money with which to pay that debt. * * *

"The question will never be settled until you determine the simple question whether the laboring man is entitled to have a gold dollar if he earns it, or whether you are going to 'cheat him' with something else. That is the upshot of the whole thing. Everybody has to say that the laboring man was entitled to a good dollar. That was fought over They will fight it over again, and the same party will win. There have been a great many battles fought against gold, but gold has won every time. Gold never has compromised. * * * Gold has made the world respect it all the time. The English people once thought they could get along without gold for a while, but they had to come back to it."

A Chinese Funeral.

"One of the most gorgeous sights I have ever seen," said Samuel Martin, a retired sea captain, "was a Chinese funeral which took place while I was in Hong Kong three years ago.

"At the front of the procession walked a band of noisy alleged musicians. Then came three men carrying banners on which were printed the titles of the deceased. Next followed more men carrying figures of animals, idols, men, umbrellas and blue and white streamers.

"Just before the coffin walked the bonzes, or Buddhist priests, preceded by incense bearers. The coffin was borne by a dozen men, while over it was a canopy held up by twenty more. Immediately behind the coffin walked the children of the dead man, the oldest son in front. The latter was dressed in canvas and leaned upon a stout stick, as he was supposed to be too overcome by grief to walk without aid.

After the children followed the other relatives in the order of their relationship, all clothed in white linen garments, as white is the emblem of Chinese mourning. The women were carried in chairs.

"Sobbing and wailing at measured intervals, they moved slowly on to the burial place. When this was reached the bonzes began chanting a mass for the dead, at the close of which the coffin was lowered into the tomb. Then a large oblong white marble table, on the middle of which were two vases and two candlesticks, was placed in front of the tomb.

"A paper cremation followed. Paper figures of men, horses, garments and a score of other things, which are supposed to undergo resurrection and be useful to the dead in heaven, were burned. The tomb was then sealed and an entertainment concluded the ceremonies."

Androscoggin.

"Here is a curiosity of the trade," said a Lewiston glassware dealer the other day. "This is a cut glass vinegar bottle, and it leaks. There does not seem to be any crack in the bottom, but there is a seam there. I sold it and the purchaser brought it back with the report that it leaked. I complained to the manufacturer, and he wrote that the bottoms of these bottles were made separately and 'heated on.' You'd never think it to look at it. The handle was made in the same way. Think about that, now; a glass vinegar bottle that looks as if it was one piece, is a soldering together of three pieces, and the whole is as clear as crystal. The hole in this one was left by the 'heating on' process."

CITY AND VICINITY.

The apple crop is unusually abundant this year. A drive through the country reveals trees so heavily laden that they have to be propped up with sticks to keep the limbs from breaking. With all this supply prices of course are low and many farmers are feeding their swine and cattle with the fruit.

The Maine Division, League of American Wheelmen, nominated the following officers at its meeting at Rockland Labor Day: For chief consul, Abner W. Lowell, Portland; secretary and treasurer, Percy H. Richardson, Portland; representatives, C. A. Bodwell Sanford, C. A. Litchfield, Lewiston and A. W. Gregory, Rockland. These nominees are elected by mail votes, receivable between Oct. 14 and Nov. 15.

Rockland Tribune: The police searched Laura Tracy's place on the Point last week and the fair Laura is now under bonds for appearance at the September term. The denizens of that locality were sorry to hear of her difficulty and when one of them came up to bring financial aid she was followed by two dogs and a goat. There was a funny scene on the corner of Spring street for a while.

The stump orators who are now leaving Maine should take this incident reported in Franklin county along with them, it is a good one to tell. On a highway bordered by well tilled farms and neat farm houses, in front of one of the finest residences the owner has erected a sign board almost as large as a barn door, and on it are painted the words, "I have voted my last Democratic ticket, and don't you forget it." The farmer living across the road has a similar board and on it is the inscription, "My sentiments are just like those of my neighbor across the way."

This is a story a drummer tells: There is a spot in an out of the way town over in Penobscot county, a little hamlet where there is a rickety grist mill, a shallow stream, a bridge and one store that has wrecked every occupant it has had for forty years. Not long ago I was in Penobscot county and my attention was attracted by a man who carried one of the soberest, most solemn faces, I ever saw. I was so much impressed that I asked a by-stander what trouble he had experienced: "Thunderin' lightnin'!" he exclaimed, "he's had trouble enough for anybody. Why man, he traded two years down ter—— Mills and the wonder is that he came out of it alive."

McKinley's Forcible Statement.

"It is a good deal better to open up the mills of the United States to the labor of Americans than to open up the mints of the United States to the silver of the world."

A WHALE IN HARNESS.

It is Being Driven, They Say, Across the Seas to San Francisco.

Colonel F. W. Black, of the customs department at Sand Point, Popoff Island, situated in the Shumagin group of islands off the Alaskan peninsula, is in Tacoma and is authority for a remarkable story of a captive whale, which, if the plans have not miscarried, is now being driven to San Francisco harnessed to a boat and driven by his captors down the coast through the waters of the ocean.

The whale, named Bulshoy, an Aleut word for immense, was captured in the spring of 1894 when a calf of some eighteen or twenty months old. It was then about fifteen or sixteen feet long, and though so young and small, was possessed of considerable strength.

During a chase for whales by whites and Indians it was driven into Pirate Cove, the entrance to which is not over 100 feet wide, though it is fully twenty fathoms deep. John C. Whiley, a storekeeper at the island, immediately stretched across the mouth of the cove a strong wire net.

Shortly afterward Whiley and his native servant attempted to feed the animal and were successful. Whiley rigged up a walrus bladder, to which was attached six or seven feet of rubber tube. About half a gallon of cow's milk was put in this improvised nursing bottle, and Whiley and Etteha put it in a bidarka or canoe, and paddled alongside the pup, which by this time would allow them to come alongside him with their boats. After several hours of patient coaxing the Indian succeeded in getting Bulshoy to drink from the rubber tube. When the bidarka turned for the shore Bulshoy followed close behind it. More milk was obtained and this time Bulshoy needed no coaxing to drink it.

For the next six weeks Whiley and the Indian fed the pup twice every day. The pup would stick his head out of the water, close to the landing, and look for his nurses long before the feeding time.

It was not until the following spring that the actual training of Bulshoy began to take definite form. Whiley one day said:

"I am going to train that pup so that I can drive him to San Francisco."

He and Etteha were constantly to be seen on the bay playing with Bulshoy, who by this time had become so accustomed to his owner and nurse that he would come to them whenever they called him from any part of the bay, and allow them to handle him at their pleasure. While this process of taming was going on Whiley had taken the pup's measure for a set of harness, and both he and his native spent the nights for several weeks in making it.

The climax was reached on Friday, September 20, 1895, when, for the first time probably in the history of the world, a four-years-old twenty-five-foot whale was successfully put in harness. When Whiley and Etteha, after putting on his harness, started for the shore, Bulshoy, as usual, started after the bidarka, and in doing so made the discovery that everything was not as it should be, and then he reared and plunged around at a lively rate, lashing the quiet waters of the bay into foam in his efforts to free himself of the offending harness. But the harness was well and strongly made, and there was no shake off to it.

Bulshoy kept up his antics for two whole days. Next morning he refused to come to the call of either Whiley or the Aleut. Hunger, however, soon brought him to his senses, and on the morning of the third day, as the native was out in the bay in his bidarka, Bulshoy came meekly alongside and seemed to beg for his breakfast, which was given him. From that day Bulshoy made no trouble.

On October 1, Whiley and the native took the long boat belonging to the station, and, attaching a tow line to the harness band immediately ahead of the fore flippers, began to cruise around the bay, and in a surprisingly short time, according to Colonel Black, Bulshoy would pull the boat in any desired direction.

During the rest of the year the pup was daily exercised. On May 21 of this year Whiley and his Aleut took the net away from the mouth of the cove, and, according to the programme laid out, struck out into deep water for the Island of Onga, sixteen miles away. The voyage was made without mishap. They afterward made a voyage from Popoff to Karluk Island.

Harper's Weekly

IN 1896.

HARPER'S WEEKLY is a journal for the whole country It deals with the events of the world that are important to Americans

In carrying out this policy, in 1895, Julian Ralph visited China and Japan, and journeyed through the West, Richard Harding Davis took a trip through the Caribbean Sea, the evolutions of the new navy were described and illustrated by Rufus F Zogbaum, Frederic Remington presented studies of Army and Frontier life, Poultney Bigelow attended the opening of the Kiel Canal.

In 1896 like attention will be given to every notable happening. The chief events in art, literature and music and the drama will be artistically presented. W. D. Howells, in the new department, Life and Letters, will discuss in his interesting way books and the social questions of the time. E. S. Martin's sprightly gossip of the Busy World will be continued The progress of the Transportation Commission around the World will be followed, and Caspar W Whitney will conduct the department of Amateur Sport.

In 1896 will occur a Presidential election. In its editorials, and through its political cartoons the WEEKLY will continue to be an independent advocate of good government and sound money.

In fiction the WEEKLY will be especially strong. It will publish the only novel of the year by W D. Howells, and a stirring serial of a Scotch feud, by S. R. Crockett. The short stories selected are of unusual excellence and interest. In every respect HARPER'S WEEKLY will maintain its leading place in the illustrated journalism of the world.

The Volumes of the WEEKLY begin with the first Number for January of each year When no time is mentioned, subscriptions will begin with the Number current at the time of receipt of order.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

WATER WORKS.

To the Citizens of Bangor

The urgency of the situation of affairs relating to our Water Works is our only excuse for the following statement

1st The Water Department is the most important department Its efficient continuance and support is absolutely necessary to the health, comfort and convenience of all our inhabitants and for the protection of our property from fire

The suffering which would follow from its failure for a few weeks or days even can only be imagined.

2nd The Water Plant has been in use twenty years and the demand upon it has increased from 1,225 service pipes in 1878 to 3,675 services at the present time, and the revenue increasing proportionally from $7 198 the first year to $60 000 in 1896 It has for some years shown evidences of its age and its want of power to furnish a sufficient pressure on the highland for fire protection and in several places for even domestic use

The filters have totally failed us—no water now passes through any filter which accounts for its muddy color at times and the obstruction to the pipes.

3rd Believing we should justly be charged with neglect of our duty if the best quality of water was not furnished, and the most ample supply and protection afforded, we have for some time anticipated the demand for improvements and extension of the plant, always in consultation with the City Council and the most eminent civil and hydraulic engineers in New England.

4th In December, 1895 knowing that our brick filters were not equal to the supply required, by the advice and authority of the City Council we contracted for a "Warren Filter," believed to be the most approved filter in use in this country, and prepared for and erected a building in which to operate it The City Council of 1895 made no appropriation to pay for either the filter or the building

Also in July, 1895, in consultation with the City Council, an eminent hydraulic engineer, well known in this vicinity, A B Lower, of Holyoke, Mass, was engaged to examine the plant and to report by plans for its improvement so as to meet the present and near future requirements of the citizens Mr Lower made his report February 11th, 1896, and afterwards submitted plans in accordance therewith

5th After due consideration the Board, with some suggestions of amendments which were made, approved the plans, and were authorized by the City Council of 1896 and did make contracts for five turbine wheels, one pump and the masonry necessary for their support

6th The CITY COUNCIL, contemplating the payment of the filter contracts and contracts for the other improvements, authorized by them to be made by temporary loans to be carried for one and two years and then assessed so as not to increase the rate per cent of taxation above that of 1895 and 96 made no provision by appropriation for the payment of either

7th After the several contractors had commenced work under their contracts, from unexpected obstructions temporary loans could not be made

Under the contract for the masonry the contractors have expended a large sum and the contractors for the wheels and pump are at work under their several contracts

8th For want of funds to perform the obligations of the City set out in the several contracts work upon the filter and masonry at the dam has been suspended and the City Council upon a petition of thirty tax payers has submitted to you the question substantially as follows "Shall the improvements begun be completed?"

We have no hesitation in strongly urging your affirmative action upon the question, believing that the improvements contemplated are absolutely necessary—AND AT ONCE An abandonment of them will result in a great loss to the tax payers

SAILOR DROWNED

Fell Overboard From the Schooner Oriental

Saturday evening about 8 30 o clock Capt C I Allen, of Brooklin, of the schooner Oriental, which is at anchor in the river, heard a sailor named Albert Rickerson call to him from the deck, he being in the cabin, to go ashore in a boat and he replied that he would do so He soon went on deck but the sailor was not to be seen

As he could not be found on board it was, of course, concluded that he had fallen overboard and been drowned. The case was immediately reported to Patrolman Smith and search was made for him Daniel Golden was engaged yesterday with the grapnel irons but met with no success Rickerson was 19 years of age and belonged in Brooklin

Base Ball Notes

The attempt of the Fall Rivers to make it appear that they are the champions is too thin and if there is any justice in the base ball judiciary it will not be entertained for a moment. There are some very curious things about that alleged "forfeit" game at New Bedford which the Fall Rivers claim and playing off a postponed game, scheduled at Pawtucket, at Fall River will not go.

Bangor proposes to have that pennant, which justly belongs here, and will make every effort to secure it. It was not decent nonsense to give Fall River four more games than Bangor. Bangor's protest will go without much doubt.

In our table of league standing in another column we have given New Bedford credit for the game of Friday and thrown out the victory of Fall River over Pawtucket for the games [illegible] Fall River, [illegible]

For the Close of the Campaign in this City.

Brilliant and Earnest Audience Filled City Hall to Doors.

Able Speeches by Gen. Grosvenor, of Ohio, Hon. Murat Halstead

And Congressman Boutelle Received with Great Enthusiasm.

The largest rally of the campaign was held at City Hall Saturday evening It was also the closing rally and was in every way a most fitting ending of the Republican effort in favor of protection and sound money The big hall was packed to the doors, many ladies were in the audience and great enthusiasm prevailed during the addresses of the speakers, who were warmly applauded at frequent intervals

The Bangor Band was stationed upon the platform and rendered an excellent programme of stirring music while the audience was assembling Upon the rear wall of the platform were the large flag and portraits of McKinley and Hobart from the headquarters of the Eastern Maine Republican Club Upon the platform were seated the speakers of the evening and prominent citizens of Bangor

A few minutes before 8 o clock, Col A B Farnham, of the Republican State Committee, called the assemblage to order and presented President John M Oak, of the Eastern Maine Republican Club, as chairman Mr Oak in taking the chair said that he would not attempt to discuss the issues but would urge upon his hearers the importance of the campaign For the first time the Democratic party has adopted a Populistic and Communistic platform

It was formerly a party of great leaders, but now with such men as Peller, Tillman, Altgeld and Jones it is no wonder that we find many Democrats unwilling to support the platform Such being the case so much more should the Republicans stand shoulder to shoulder for McKinley and do their duty at the polls, for upon the size of the majority of next Monday depends the loss or gain of confidence among our opponents

Mr Oak quoted from McKinley regarding the Republican party standing for the home, protection and the honest dollar, and said that with these principles in mind the people will lead on to victory Mr. Oak then gracefully introduced Gen C H Grosvenor, of Ohio, as a soldier, Congressman and personal friend of McKinley to deliver the first address of the evening Gen Grosvenor was received with three hearty cheers and warm applause

Gen Grosvenor's Address

Gen Grosvenor said that he was no stranger to the people of Maine and knew something of their production, industrial system and mode of living He had been surprised to hear a number of men passing up and down the State speaking disrespectfully of the people and calling attention to what they were pleased to designate the degeneration of the agricultural system but he was not surprised when he found that one of them whom he heard on that platform, who had said that farms had been abandoned for the so called crime of 1873, was an agent of the silver mine owners

While the industries were hung up here, waiting, the outlook was bright and he was delighted at what he saw in Maine It was not the first time he had seen party lines breaking under the influence of patriotism and he called to mind that with the guns of Fort Sumter party lines melted and were abandoned for the side of patriotism

Today there is a large demand on patriotism and the evils of that hour are being repeated in a more dangerous way than in 1861 The real contention then was the relation between the Federal Government and the government of the States. The people of the South said the Federal Government had no power to interfere in the affairs of the States The party which is seeking to elect Bryan is endeavoring to overthrow the Government in a more insidious manner than the Rebels of 1861

The people of the South did not propose to destroy property in the North, nor did they say it was wicked to be industrious They said let us divide the country, and said inferentially, protect all your citizens but do not array one class against another Lincoln issued a call for troops but the Governor of Kentucky said there was no condition of violence which made troops necessary The troops went across the State nevertheless

Recently there arose a riot in Chicago and the entire inter-State commerce of the United States was paralyzed The man most guilty for that crime was the Governor of Illinois the greatest leader of the Bryan forces President Cleveland put an end to the riot with Federal forces and Gen Grosvenor in this connection spoke highly of his courage and wisdom He said he was glad that the President and the men around him were doing all they could to keep the Communistic party from the White House In the Chicago platform is a plank denouncing President Cleveland for his action in stopping the riot Bryan says that the Governors of States shall have jurisdiction in these matters, but the Attorney General, a Democrat, says that Bryan doesn't understand the constitution. If Bryan should answer questions upon the law in the manner he does in his letter of acceptance, he could not be admitted to the bar This silver party first want to get control of the Government, then elect their Altgelds and have mob rule They say that the Supreme Court of the United States must be trampled under foot. While I won't call Bryan an anarchist search the country over and you will find the men who do not believe in the sanctity of home and the right of law, voting for Bryan every time When this Democratic platform was read at the convention, David B. Hill said, "I'm a Democrat, but not a revolutionist," and he strongly assailed its planks

Four years ago the Democrats said give us the government and we will make the country prosperous. Unfortunately the people did so although the country was then in splendid condition. They gave us a nostrum, which they now admit was bad but they come again and say they will cure us with free silver. The speaker said that he had heard it stated on that platform a few nights before that silver had been demonetized in 1873 and that we should not have good times until it was remonetized. He would inquire how silver could be made any different by remonetization from what it is now, when the silver dollar is as good as any dollar [illegible]

[illegible] Hood's Sarsaparilla [illegible]

in the world and goes wherever gold goes

There ought to be enough to do business with, the speaker said, and he proceeded to show that the United States has more money per capita than any country in the world, except one and four times as much as any silver country More than half this money is laying idle waiting for the Democratic menace to pass There is but one demand of the American people to-day and that is an opportunity to earn money The silver mine owners alone would be benefited by free coinage

Bryan says that with free coinage the price of silver would be raised to $1 29 an ounce Suppose such to be the case would it not be as hard to get a dollar then as now Why not take our silver to the silver countries and sell it? What a ridiculous proposition! They say they want an American system We have it now The last countries that I want to copy after are Mexico, where they have practical slavery, and China

Maine occupies a splendid position and no other State in the Union has such power in politics and in influencing legislation in Congress You have had political sense to know a good thing when you saw it in the form of a man and the good sense to hold on to him You have the President pro tem of the Senate, Senator Frye possessing great faculties of leadership You have the speaker of the House Thomas B Reed a leader in thought and action, having more influence over legislation than any other man in the government you have the chairman of the Committee on Ways and Means, Nelson Dingley Jr the highest authority on the great questions of economics

You have at the head of the Committee on Naval Affairs a gentleman more capable of filling the position than any man in the United States, Charles A Boutelle You have Hale and Milliken wise and industrious men That is why your voice is worth something today I appeal to the conscience and intelligence of the people of Maine and ask you to raise such a voice for protection, sound money and the election of McKinley as will ring through the country

At the conclusion of Gen Grosvenor's very able address Chairman Oak said that Congressman Boutelle would introduce to the audience a gentleman whom they would be glad to hear

Mr Boutelle said that by a fortunate chance they had present one of the most distinguished of journalists the founder of the Cincinnati Commercial Gazette, the friend of Garfield, Blaine and McKinley and his own personal friend, Hon Murat Halstead of New York and it gave him pleasure to present him to the audience

Mr Halstead was received with a hearty round of applause

Hon Murat Halstead's Address

Mr Halstead said that the kind partiality of his old friend the distinguished Representative, had given him the unexpected pleasure of addressing the audience He said that he agreed with Gen Grosvenor, who, when he congratulated him at the close of his address said that anybody ought to make a good speech before such a splendid audience Mr Halstead said that he was a stranger in Maine but was familiar with the long list of distinguished public men who had represented the State

Mr Halstead then briefly discussed the silver question He said that there had been so much talk about the demonetization of silver that he had figured up the amount and weight of silver in the treasury the first of the month and found it to be $513 000 000 in value and 16 000 tons in weight "All demonetized, I suppose," said Mr Halstead facetiously Thirty five million dollars worth of silver was mined last year

Mr Halstead explained why wheat went up and down in price from competition with South America and Europe and the overproduction by the development of machinery, making it cost one half as much as formerly The remedy is in the diversification of industry, the election of McKinley and protection The speaker said that he had traveled through many countries and had witnessed many exciting and interesting events He attended the Charleston convention in 1860 when the Democratic party went to pieces

He also attended the Chicago convention and witnessed a second disruption of the party, with the same excitements and the same spirit of revolution The question is has our Republic been a tolerable success? If it has then it is our duty to keep it so It it has not then we have only to vote the Democratic ticket Mr Halstead said that he was in Maine as an historian, for the election of Monday would have the most momentous consequences He should not have spoken had he not thought he might convey to the people of Maine the solicitude with which other States look to the verdict here on Monday

Mr Halstead closed with the statement that he hoped to record a glorious victory in which the people of Maine would keep step with those of Vermont

Congressman Boutelle was presented by President Oak as the last speaker and was received with three hearty cheers and long continued applause

Congressman Boutelle's Address

Mr Boutelle said that it was his pleasure to announce to the audience that the Fourth District from Aroostook to Washington, from St John River to Quoddy Head and from Moosehead Lake to Bangor, is standing unbroken in the Republican column, and that there was greater enthusiasm than at any time in his observation There was not a break in the line and on each wing were the reinforcements from the best portion of the Democratic party with the Democrats of Bangor leading off

He was reminded how history repeats itself and how men break party ties and stand shoulder to shoulder for the right, and in this connection he referred to Hannibal Hamlin, Chief Justice Peters and Gen Jameson, who had revolted against the Democratic party when its Southern Leaders organized an assault upon the unity of the Republic He was glad to find that in his own city there were now patriots who broke their party ties when their country was in danger Mr Boutelle said that never since the Chicago convention had he a doubt of Republican victory in this District or in Maine, for he knew the people of this State too well to believe they would become enamored of the free silver nostrum

He said that the managers of the free silver canvass paid a compliment to his State in unanimously agreeing that it would not do to let Bryan speak in Maine

Mr Boutelle then spoke of the tariff He told how the conditions had changed for the worse throughout the United States, owing to the disastrous effects of Democratic misrule in subjecting our industries to unjust competition, and told how the woolen mills in Bradford, England, and elsewhere had been built up at the expense of those in this country

He sketched the period of the country's greatest prosperity from 1861 to 1892, under Republican rule, and the disaster which followed Democratic government. In asking the question "what are we going to do?" he replied that he believed that those who had been prosperous for years would endeavor to get back upon the high road of prosperity. He did not believe the people were going to take the silver nostrum. [illegible]

Boutelle said that it was a shameful appeal to debtors to cheat their creditors and proposed such legislation as would enable people to rob each other He did not believe that such a plan would succeed as there is a beneficial law of the universe which causes advertised villainy to fail Should Bryan be elected it would quickly result in a panic such as the mind shudders to contemplate

In conclusion Mr Boutelle said he would simply ask his fellow citizens that they show a fair portion of the zeal that is manifested in the rest of the District and if they did so they would render a verdict for American prosperity, an honest ballot an honest count and an honest caucus among an honest people He urged upon every man and woman that local self government be maintained and that they send legally chosen representatives of the sound money party to the Legislature

He said while traveling over the District laboring in the interest of the success of the entire Republican ticket, his attention had been called to the fact that he had been honored in being assailed in public print in company with such a splendid jurist and beloved citizen as Chief Justice Peters He had been assailed for being in favor of sustaining the regular candidates of the Republican party and took this occasion to plead guilty to the charge He had never conducted a campaign on the theory that it was the chief aim of a candidate to run ahead of his ticket, to fail to be at home when political trouble knocked at the door or to put a muzzle on his newspaper when Republican principles or interests were in danger

In accepting a nomination to Congress he had never adopted the idea that it was his duty to abandon his rights as a citizen but had felt resting upon him all the more imperatively the obligation of supporting the regular action of the party When caucuses were held under the call of the party and had made nominations which had been made unanimous by the minority, thus leaving the selection of candidates as the apparent will of the party he had accepted the result although at times it was a difficult thing to do He had felt it was not his duty to assert his judgment against the action of the party, even though it was sometimes a severe strain to tolerate the methods or champion the nominee

Mr Boutelle said he was in favor of a caucus system which could transact its business quietly and honestly and would afford a fair expression of the will of the party If the people prefer another system they can have it but for his part he wanted to take his stand there publicly in favor of nominees fairly and honorably selected It had been asserted that he would be cut in this city because he had openly and earnestly advocated the election of the regular candidates of the Republican party The people of the District will Mr Boutelle will take care of my election and I am proud of a constituency that enables me to stand here to-night and without fear or favor urge the Republicans of Bangor to stand by the candidates of their party

I believe it is the duty of the people of this city to elect the respected and honorable men who were nominated in the regular manner Messrs Stetson Pearl and Palmer, as representing the best interests of the city and the party and I feel it to be the duty of citizens irrespective of party who believe in honest caucuses and the rule of the majority to vindicate those grand principles by the election of these men If the people ever find me asking them to substitute my will and personal interests as against the will of the people I hope they will put me down This is the first time I have ever responded to personal assault in the course of a public career of sixteen years and I have had my share of abuse

If there is any man in this city who has not been a Republican who can be properly induced to vote for me or for some other portion of our ticket, but would not vote it entire I ask him now to vote for the regular Representative ticket and let me rest in the hands of my constituents in the other portions of the District who will abundantly take care of me I prefer to lose any gratification of such personal compliment to myself in my city rather than have the Republican candidates for the Legislature, who are threatened by an unjustifiable bolt, lose a single vote

The remarks of Mr Boutelle were applauded to the echo, indicating that the large audience in attendance would so far as the men were concerned support the straight ticket at the polls today and if the ladies had a vote the majority in support of the principles advocated by the speaker would be a phenomenal one The meeting closed with three rousing cheers for the speakers, the candidates and victory
